The Honorable Ronald M. George, Chief Justice
and the Associate Justices
Supreme Court of California
350 McAllister Street
San Francisco, CA 94102

Re: Strauss v. Horton – Case No. S168047
City and County of San Francisco v. Horton – Case No. S168078
Tyler v. State of California – Case No. S168066
Proposition 8 Official Proponents' Letter in Opposition to Motion by Campaign for California Families to Intervene as Respondent.

To the Honorable Chief Justice and Associate Justices:

I write on behalf of the Official Proponents of Proposition 8 and the official campaign Committee in favor of Proposition 8 (motion pending to intervene as real parties in interest, hereafter "Official Proponents")<sup>1</sup> to respectfully request that the Motion by Campaign for California Families to Intervene as Respondent be denied.

This Court should deny the motion to intervene of Campaign for California Families (hereafter "CCF") because CCF has no judicially cognizable interest in these proceedings. Although CCF asserts a general ideological interest in support of Proposition 8, it lacks the required direct and immediate interest in the essentially procedural issues raised in these cases – i.e., whether the Official Proponents could validly propose Proposition 8 to the voters by initiative. Only the Official Proponents have a direct and immediate interest in that issue.

CCF is not the official campaign committee for Proposition 8, nor does it have any relationship with the Official Proponents of Proposition 8. Rather, CCF is merely an issues advocacy group whose interest in these proceedings is fundamentally philosophical and political in nature, and thus indistinguishable from the interests of millions of Californians who supported and campaigned for passage of Proposition 8. As held in City and County of San Francisco v. State of California (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 1030, which addressed intervention in the Marriage Cases by an advocacy group, the nature of such an interest is not sufficient to justify intervention under California law. (Id. at 1039.) "The fact the interveners and their members actively supported the [challenged laws] and that they have a general interest in the enforcement of [such] laws alone will not support their intervention."

(Id. at 1041 [quoting People ex rel. Rominger v. County of Trinity (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 655, 662].)

Moreover, it is worth noting that for several years CCF actively campaigned against the Official Proponents' efforts to qualify Proposition 8 for the ballot, promoting instead a competing initiative that, in addition to defining marriage, would have revoked numerous rights protecting gays and lesbians in California. Only after CCF's preferred initiative failed to qualify for the ballot did CCF change its position and come out in favor of Proposition 8.<sup>2</sup>

Whatever belated and unofficial efforts CCF made to support Proposition 8, they pale in comparison with the official responsibilities performed by the Official Proponents (Elec. Code § 342) and the official, registered campaign Committee for Proposition 8. As set forth in their pending motion to intervene as real parties in interest, the Official Proponents performed all of the arduous duties and tasks required by law of official initiative proponents to qualify Proposition 8 for the ballot. The Official Proponents then coordinated a wide-ranging and successful statewide campaign to enact Proposition 8, in the process raising and spending over $37 million on campaign-related activities. CCF had no such involvement.

Lastly, the Official Proponents are concerned that the presence of CCF and potentially other advocacy groups as respondents will substantially interfere with the Official Proponents' ability to effectively defend their direct interests in these proceedings. This Court should deny CCF's motion to intervene and, if it accepts these cases for a decision on the merits, invite CCF to join other advocacy groups in submitting an amicus brief expressing their views on the issues. (See City and County of San Francisco v. State of California, supra, 128 Cal. App. 4th at 1044.)

Thank you for the Court's attention.

Respectfully submitted,

ANDREW P. PUGNO
Attorney at Law

<sup>2</sup> In the nearly identical pre-election challenge to Proposition 8 (see Bennett v. Bowen (Hollingsworth et al.), California Supreme Court Case No. S164520), CCF and related persons – newly converted to Proposition 8 – sought to intervene. The Official Proponents opposed their motion, which this Court ultimately denied as moot. The factual statements herein regarding CCF's earlier opposition to Proposition 8, together with supporting documentation, can be found in the Official Proponents' Opposition to Motion to Intervene (July 10, 2008) filed in Bennett v. Bowen (Hollingsworth et al.), supra.
